THE TALK OF THE CAMPUS

The President Speaks

DURING the past months it has been my privilege to serve as a member of the Advisory Committee on Higher Education to the Committee on Education of the House of Representatives. The Congress last year was concerned over the effect of the war on institutions of higher education and authorized this study. Association in this work, so important for the national welfare and the future of our colleges, has broadened our understanding of the problems of education in a democratic society and given us an appreciation of the complex relations of the Federal Government. Our committee of twelve had representatives of publicly supported and privately supported institutions, large and small, from Massachusetts to Oregon. Together we studied the problems of our colleges and universities disrupted by war and recently presented a unanimous report to the Congress.

Mr. Benjamin Fine, the education editor of the New York Times, in the February eighteenth edition of the paper gives a good summary of our report. Most of the college difficulties arise from the induction of young men into the armed forces. The total enrollment in institutions of higher education is barely half of what it was in 1939-1940. Although the women's colleges have large enrollments the men's colleges are in serious difficulty. Coeducational institutions, like Juniata, have had varied experiences. A few have increased the number of women students, but most have not found this feasible. Juniata's residence facilities for women are filled and there is no possibility of immediate expansion.

To compensate for the loss of student tuition and to maintain college faculties for service in the post-war years, especially to the returning veterans, the committee is recommending temporary federal aid for institutions which can prove a real need. The national welfare demands that our system of higher education with its many kinds of institutions shall not be impaired but shall be ready to serve in the years ahead. College faculties, which require years to build, have been scattered overnight. The normal repairs and replacements to physical plants have not been made and few institutions will have the funds to make them when materials and men are again available.

Juniata's life has not been disrupted as much as many colleges. Because we are coeducational most of our normal college activities have continued. A large proportion of our professors are with us and, except for physical education, no department has been seriously affected. The loyalty of our faculty as they have assumed additional instructional and administrative responsibilities has been worthy of Juniata's finest traditions. The student senate functions with a woman as president and young women are carrying forward in a worthy manner many college tasks formerly entrusted to men. The institutional manager and the superintendent of maintenance have under most trying conditions provided food and service for the dining hall and kept the buildings in reasonable repair. Only those who have knowledge of these problems can appreciate the miracles they have produced.

The educational provisions of the G. I. Bill, Public Law 346, was the first subject discussed by the Advisory Committee when we met in Washington last summer. Our government has made generous provision for the education and rehabilitation of veterans of this war. The disabled are already returning to our campuses and with the cessation of hostilities the men will come in large numbers. The Veterans Administration through its district offices is caring for the men and women discharged from the armed forces and arranging to pay for their education. Each veteran who has served more than ninety days, who was not over twenty-five years of age when he entered service, is offered one year of education and may continue longer under certain conditions, with the government paying the college its customary tuition and fees and giving the veteran a subsistence allowance of fifty dollars a month. If the veteran is married the subsistence allowance is seventy-five dollars a month. Juniata is interested particularly in her students whose education was interrupted by their call to service. We are anxious to assist them continue their education while in service and to complete their studies for graduation as soon as possible upon their discharge. The Brethren Service Committee and the College are arranging financial assistance for the men in Civilian Public Service so they too can continue their education. We believe that the men and women returning from the war will need the educational opportunities which they had when they went away. The faculty has set up a committee for the guidance of these demobilized students of which Professor Kenneth L. Smoke is chairman. The Registrar, Professor Pressley L. Crummy, is the officer designated to negotiate with the Veterans Administration.

The college administrative officers have been spending a good proportion of their time planning the future service of Juniata. The planning Commission and its associated committees have made an exhaustive study of Juniata's pre-war educational facilities and services. They have also discussed purposes and goals and have tried to chart a course for the future. The Planning Commission will report to the Board of trustees in April and it is hoped that Juniata's program for the future will be announced at Commencement in May.

We believe that Juniata has a unique opportunity for service. The enthusiasm with which her alumni have shared in planning her future evidences their appreciation of the values they received on College Hill. To be associated with such men and women in the education of youth is a joy and privilege.—CALVERT N. ELLIS

Spring Term

THE PLANS for the spring term at Juniata include some changes in the student body and faculty. In accordance with the now-accepted program of midwinter commencements, second semester entrants, and with war-time conditions effecting constant alterations in both student body and faculty, the campus group is a shifting and unstable one these days.

Dr. Charles S. Shively, professor of mathematics, emeritus, has returned to the campus for the second semester to teach mathematics and physics. Dr. Shively came to Juniata in 1920 as professor of mathematics and physics and taught in the mathematics department until his retirement in 1943. Since that time he has been instructing students of the United States Navy at Franklin and Marshall. Dr. Fayette A. McKenzie, who came to Juniata for the first time in 1897, is teaching during the spring term after spending the first semester in Texas and Mexico.

A group of eight students left the campus at the end of the first semester, three of them as graduates and six as members of the armed forces. The graduates were: Sara Jane James of Johnstown, bachelor of science; Alfred Behrer of Spruce Creek, bachelor of arts, and Clark Kittleberger of Clearfield who was awarded the degree, bachelor of science, in absentia. The five freshman boys who were called to the service were Robert Weiner, Glenn Cave, Robert Wilt, Robert Brashear and Donald Luck.

Ten new students entered college as freshmen at the beginning of the second semester, some of them having accelerated their high school course in order to enter college. They are James Constable of Park Hill, John Grasse of Blooming Glen, Jean Ruppert of Port Washington, N.Y., Iris Rothrock of Milroy, Thomas Rainear of Ardmore, James Hershberger of Martinsburg, Virginia Weaver of Windber, William Fegan of Palmyra, Lee Thomas of Shamokin, Donald McCavitt of Defiance, and Volodimer Kucher of Carnegie, Pa. Six other students, three of whom have served in the armed forces, have returned to complete their college work.

Juniata's Faculty

WE are so frequently met by alumni with questions like, "Is my favorite professor still on faculty?" or "How many of the profs that I know are at Juniata now?" that we have a suspicion you would like to meet the faculty.

If you graduated within the past twenty-five years, you would not be a stranger on campus for some of your old professors would still be here. Dr. McKenzie, Dr. N. J. Brumbaugh, Prof. Dubbel, Dr. Shively, Dean Stayer, Prof. Rowland, Miss McCrimmon and, of course, President Emeritus C. C. Ellis might be among them for they have been on Juniata's staff for twenty years or more. Dr. C. C. Ellis and Dr. McKenzie have been here the longest, Dr. Ellis coming in 1894 and Dr. McKenzie in 1897. Moreover, you would not only find them here but relatively unchanged. Dr. Brumbaugh maintains his zealous quest for learning as evidenced by his concentrated study of Russian, Prof. Dubbel and Miss McCrimmon (whom liberal arts majors remember affectionately) impart, with their teaching some of their own graciousness and balance in living. Dean Stayer is as friendly and genial as ever—and Prof. Rowland is still the campus' official punster.

In addition to these, other members have been added who have also established themselves as integral parts of college life with all departments building more solid reputations. The remainder of our academic procession lines up as follows: Dr. Homer C. Will, professor of biology; Dr. Harold C. Binkley, professor of English; Dr. Edgar S. Kiracofe, professor of education, Dr. Kenneth L. Smoke, professor of psychology; Dr. Donald M. Rockwell, professor of chemistry; Prof. Paul R. Yoder, assistant professor of physics; Prof. Harry H. Nye, assistant professor of history; Prof. J. Clyde Stayer, assistant professor of mathematics; Prof. Jack E. Oller, assistant professor of French; Miss Frances

J. Mathias, assistant professor of home economics; Miss Edith L. Spencer, assistant professor of art; Miss Gertrude L. Butler, assistant professor of home economics; Dr. Pressley L. Crummy, assistant professor of biology; Prof. Herbert K. Zassenhaus, assistant professor of economics; Mrs. Sara Steele Hettinger, acting librarian; Miss Eleanor Chapin, instructor in home economics; Miss Mary Ruth Myers, instructor in music; Mrs. Adah Roth Dick, instructor in home economics; Miss Lois V. Williams, instructor in classical languages; Mrs. Dorothy Feit, instructor in education; Miss Jean Johnston, instructor in English; Mrs. Betty Smaltz, instructor in physical education.

Lest there be a charge of intellectual provincialism, it should be remarked that the faculty represents many regions and many institutions of higher learning, including fifty-one colleges and universities. Moreover, some of the faculty have added foreign graduate study to their educational background, with the Sorbonne, University of Montpelier, University of Copenhagen, University of Zurich, University of Grenoble, University of Nancy, University of Bonn, University of Berne, and the London School of Economics being among the schools attended.

The war has brought some temporary changes in faculty personnel with Miss Lillian Evans, librarian, Coach P. M. Snider, '26, Prof. Paul Yoder, and Prof. Herman Scholl absent in war service. Miss Evans is acting as a librarian in the naval libraries on Terminal Island, Long Beach, California, while Prof. Yoder has been teaching in the Keystone Radio School at Bedford and is teaching physics at Penn State during the spring semester. "Mike" Snider and Prof. Herman Scholl, the faculty's representatives in the Navy, are both in the Admiralty Islands. Prof. Emer. Charles S. Shively and Prof. Emer. Fayette A. McKenzie have returned as active members of the faculty for the spring term.

From a more human standpoint, the faculty members appear to have a variety of personal interests, ranging from art, golf, gardening, photography, flower arranging, and skiing to sitting by the fire with a copy of Homer (or perhaps a family group). The "profs" have endeavored always to foster the friendly, sympathetic atmosphere which has become so much a part of Juniata's tradition. Perhaps now, more than ever, they are faced not only with heavier schedules and longer hours, but also with a deeper sense of responsibility to impart the ideals of higher education to a constantly changing and bewildered student body.

Education Bill

THE PRESIDENTS of the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania have drafted three specific proposals for the betterment of education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which will be presented to the state legislature for consideration.

These proposals recommend: (1) the re-organization of the State Council of Education arranging for the appointment of its members in annual classes of two each year, thus making it impossible for any governor to change the entire personnel of State Council within his term of office. (2) The strengthening of the Teacher Training program of the Commonwealth by consolidating the fourteen state teachers' colleges into six and releasing the facilities and buildings of the remaining eight for other public uses, such as vocational education, rehabilitation for returning veterans, and various types of welfare services, (3) the equalization of educational opportunity at the college level by an expanded program of state competitive scholarships for use in any college in the Commonwealth, accredited by the State Council of Education.

It is hoped that these three bills will gain the support of all persons interested in the future of education. They will strengthen educational advancement within the commonwealth and provide for better educational opportunity for preparing teachers at public expense, especially in the elementary field. They would result in a considerable financial saving to tax payers of the community. They would provide greater opportunity for high school graduates with financial need to attend college.

The proposed bills are particularly significant for the reason that the college presidents are assuming leadership in a matter of vital concern to the education in the commonwealth and have pooled their abilities and their energies to bring success to the enterprise. President Ellis urges Juniata alumni to consider these bills and believes they are worthy of support.

"1630" Fire

FIRE, starting in the basement and spreading rapidly through the entire structure destroyed one of the college buildings on the night of January 10.

The building, which has been known in recent years as 1630, was situated on the corner of Seventeenth and Moore Streets, opposite the Stone Church and the College Library. It housed two studios and classrooms of the music department, the nursery school, the art department, the Carnegie listening room and record collection, and the apartments of two women members of the faculty. Although the walls of the building are still intact, the floors have been burned away in several places and the major portion of the roof has caved in.

The building was originally constructed by the late Martin G. Brumbaugh. For many years it was the home of Prof. T. T. Myers. Before being taken over by the music department, it was used as a faculty residence and for several years Dr. Warren D. Bowman and his family lived there. No definite plans for the replacement of the building have, as yet, been announced.

The Alumni Spotlight

William Foster, '41

Luther Davis, '47

Again this column of the Alumni Bulletin honors Juniataians who have paid the supreme sacrifice for their country. Among the more recent casualties reported, two are listed as killed in action and six as missing or as prisoners of war.

Lt. William Foster, '41

OFFICIAL WORD has been received of two former Juniata students, Lt. William Foster, '41, and Pfc. Luther Davis, '47ex, who have been reported killed in action. Both boys were residents of Huntingdon.

Lt. Foster, son of Mr. ('11) and Mrs. James W. Foster, was killed in China on December 20 after having served in the China theater for two or three months. Prior to that time, he was in India for a year. In his last letter, Bill informed his parents that he had completed 1000 hours in the air and expected to be home in January.

Having received his Bachelor of Science degree from Juniata in 1941, he did graduate work at New York University until his enlistment in the Air Corps March 17, 1942. He received training at Greenville, Miss., and other flying schools in the United States before going overseas.

Last year, Lt. Foster's brother, Captain James Foster, '39, was injured in a parachute jump in the South Pacific after his plane was shot down by a Jap Zero.

Pfc. Luther Davis, '47

Pfc. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Davis, was one of the members of the Reserves at Juniata called before finishing his college education. A member of the 75th Infantry Division, he had been overseas only two months, but during that time he had served in England, Holland, France, and Germany. It was in the latter country that he met his death.

Luther left Juniata for the army in February of 1943 and first served at Fort Belvoir, Va., in the Engineer Corps. Later he was sent to Georgetown University and to Clarkson Tech for study under the Army Specialized Training Program. When the A. S. T. P. was discontinued he was sent to Shreveport, La., and assigned to the Infantry.

In addition to these casualties, six Juniata men, Ist. Lt. Richard Rohrer, '44ex, 2nd Lt. William Swigart, '37ex, Pvt. Herbert Lester Keech, '33, Lt. Paul Updyke, '41, Pfc. Franklin Swartz, '46 and Sgt. Harold Baumgardner, '37 have been listed as missing or prisoners of war.

To date, no definite word has been received concerning the safety of several of these boys, but the Alumni Bulletin will attempt to print the news of their welfare as soon as it is received. We will appreciate receiving any additional news concerning these casualties. There may be others of which we have not heard. If so, news of their whereabouts and military records will be particularly helpful to us. The following is the most recent information available concerning the six casualties listed above.

Lt. Richard Rohrer, '44ex

Lt. Rohrer, the pilot of a B-17, was shot down over Germany on June 21, and was reported a German prisoner on July 18. He is in the concentration camp at Stalug Luft 2, Germany. He reports that he and his entire crew are safe and well. Lt. Rohrer was one of two pilots chosen from his group to be trained as a pathfinder, his work being to lead the formation of Fortresses to the target and mark the area to be bombed with smoke bombs.

Lt. Paul Updyke, '41

Stationed in India, Lt. Updyke, son of Joseph Updyke of Huntingdon, was a flyer in the Transport Service of the China-Burma-India theater. He entered the service on December 30, 1941, and trained at Maxwell Field, Alabama, and Turner Field, Albany, Ga. He left for overseas in November of last year. His wife is the former Phyllis Launtzer of Altoona.

Pvt. Herbert Keech, '33

Lt. William Swigart, '37

Lt. Swigart had been reported missing since November 18 and it has recently been learned that he parachuted from his plane over German-held Yugoslavia and is a prisoner of the German government. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Swigart of Alexandria and the husband of the former Betty Wilson. Mrs. Swigart received a message via short wave radio on February 15 stating that he is well.

Lt. Swigart entered the Army Air Corps on October 4, 1943 and received his navigator's wings at Hondo Army Air Field in June of last year. From there he went to Lincoln, Neb., for assignment to a crew and to Mountain Home, Idaho, for combat training. He left for overseas in September of this year.

Pvt. Herbert Keech, '33

Pvt. Keech, son of Frank Keech of Canton, O., and husband of Lorraine (Meredith) Keech, has been missing in Luxembourg since December 20. Going overseas in June, he participated in the invasion campaign, and saw action in France, Belgium, Germany, and Luxembourg. He has received the Purple Heart for wounds received in action. He entered the service in October, 1943, and received his training at Camp Barkeley, Texas.

Pfc. Franklin Swartz, '46

Pfc. Franklin Swartz is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Swartz of Mifflin who received word that he had been missing in action since January 16. He was with the Armored Division serving in Belgium.

He was a student at Juniata when he was called to the service and would have graduated with the class of 1946. He was sent to an army school at El Paso, Texas, and later was shifted to the Infantry.

Sgt. Harold Baumgardner, '37

Sgt. Baumgardner was able to send word to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Baumgardner of Wells Tannery that he is a prisoner of war. This message was most unusual in that it came before any official War Department notice had been received. Sgt. Baumgardner was in the combat engineers and took part in the invasion on D-Day. He has seen service in France, Belgium, and Germany, having spent about seven weeks in the vicinity of Aachen. In the service since 1942, he has been overseas since June, 1943 and missing in action since December 21.

Local Association Annual Dinners

JUNIATA Alumni enjoy getting together. That is why, despite war time conditions, sixteen of the eighteen local alumni associations have kept alive the tradition of an annual dinner get together. During the months of March, April and May, Juniata College alumni will be greeting each other in areas from Chicago to New York.

At all dinner meetings each Juniata service man and woman from that area will be recognized in a special way.

THE SPORTS PARADE

Although seriously handicapped by a lack of tall and experienced players, this year's basketball team proved to be a fast-moving group which gave a good account of itself against some of the strongest teams in the East. Facing such formidable foes as Muhlenberg, C.C.N.Y., Valley Forge Military Hospital, Westminster, and Ursinus, the Indians won 8 out of 16 college games and dropped 4 decisions to army teams. Only two of the games lost were to all-civilian teams, most of the schools using ex-college and professional stars gleaned from army and navy units.

Most outstanding player on the Juniata team was seasoned letterman, Dick Wareham, who gained national attention by placing fourth among the top scorers of the nation. Juniata's previous scoring records went by the boards in the process since Dick broke his own record of 26 points in a single game and also topped the list of season's top-scorers with 353 points in 20 games.

For the most part Coach Jack E. Oller was forced to rely upon freshman material, although Earl Kaylor and John Carper had seen some varsity action last year, and Harry King, a transfer student, had starred for Hershey Junior College. Two freshmen, Gerry Rupert and Dan Restuccia, won permanent starting posts while capable reserves were found in Weiner, Ford, Sell, Grote, Constable, Runyeon, and Fluke.

The Redskins opened their season by dropping three straight games, to Muhlenberg, 34-64, C. C.

N. Y., 41-66, and Valley Forge Military Hospital, 31-64. Since all three of these teams made strong bids for the Eastern championship, Juniata's showing against them was really commendable. The latter team, in particular, is a star-studded aggregation featuring such players as All-American Stan Szukala, former Wisconsin University ace, Harley Graf, and Notre Dame stars Johnny Niemiera, Jack Craddock, and Bill Davis. Against competition of this kind, the college boys were out-manuevered, not only by greater experience but by superior height.

In their next match, the Indians won a thrilling extra-period victory over Susquehanna with the final total standing 45-41. They defeated Dickinson rather decisively in a game on the Huntingdon High School floor, 47-26, only to be surprise-attacked a few days later when the Carlisle boys won a return match with them, 31-33. A 42-51 loss to Olmstead Field and an overwhelming 81-47 victory over Elizabethtown closed the pre-Christmas season. It was in this last game that Wareham netted 42 points.

On January 6, they re-opened their season, showing up rather poorly against Carnegie Tech to be defeated 31-56. The following week, they met a second defeat, 40-81, at the hands of Westminster College. Living up to their name of Towering Titans this team was of skyscraper proportions, averaging well over six feet and topped by a six-foot eight-inch center, Noble Jorgensen.

Following defeats by Ursinus, 54-73, and Lehigh, 39-55, the Indians smashed through an easy victory over St. Francis College 65-32 and beat Susquehanna 57-41. They were once again overwhelmed by the powerful Valley Forge quintet, which won an 84-40 decision on their own floor. St. Francis and E'town were defeated for the second time, 67-24 and 66-36, with Wareham scoring 30 points in the latter game.

Olmstead Field, which like Valley Forge, is a semi-professional army outfit, featuring Fucarino, who starred four years for Long Island University, won a 63-52 victory after a close and thrill-packed contest, while Westminster also was given a sharp tussle for their final 89-55 triumph. In the final game of the season the Redskins avenged their earlier defeat at the hands of Carnegie Tech by chalking up a 60-57 win over the Pittsburgh quintet.

Next year's basketball prospects are naturally uncertain, with the majority of the team anticipating almost immediate Selective Service induction.
